JUDGE # 1

Bess Arnold is a freelance writer living in Cheyenne, Wyoming. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Wyoming as a nontraditional student following a 20-year career with the Wyoming Education Association. She was a reporter for the Wyoming Tribune-Eagle in Cheyenne and retired in 1993. Arnold has authored two books, Wyoming—Along the Union Pacific Corridor, and Union Pacific: Crossing Sherman Hill and Other Railroad Stories.

JUDGE # 2

Kym Zwonitzer has 23 years in bank marketing as the state marketing vice president for two of the state's major banking chains. Recently she made a career change to join her husband in operating their two furniture stores and an auction house and now enjoys the challenges of small business ownership. Zwonitzer still maintains a love of writing and editing and currently serves as the state president of the Wyoming Media Professionals and is involved in marketing for several nonprofit organizations.

JUDGE # 3

Amber Travsky is a wildlife biologist, environmental consultant, karate instructor and freelance writer. She and her husband, Rich, reside in Laramie, Wyoming. She served two terms as mayor and nine years on the city council. Travsky currently chairs the Wyoming Governor's Council for Physical Fitness and Sport and is a member of the President's Council for Physical Fitness and Sport. She heads her own environmental consulting company and is a writer and outdoor columnist for the Wyoming Tribune-Eagle.
